Water Fight, Quota System Plague End Of Year IFC Action

IFC Considers Punitive Action

• THE IFC JURISPRUDENCE committee will meet Thursday evening to consider punitive action against four fraternities involved in a late afternoon water fight last Tuesday on G st.

The battle, which started quietly as intrafraternity fun outside the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity house, quickly spread to several other fraternity houses.

Police specifically mentioned Sigma Chi, Tau Epsilon Phi and Sigma Phi Epsilon in a report to Dr. Don C. Faith, director of men's activities. But all four groups have been ordered to appear before the Jurisprudence committee, according to IFC President Jay Baraff.

Sigma Chi and Alpha Epsilon Pi representatives on the committee will not be seated during the hearing. And IFC President Baraff will substitute for committee Chairman Jeff Young, a member of AEPi, at the Tuesday meeting.

According to fraternity men, police from the Third Precinct quieted the battle three different times during the afternoon before they were finally able to stop it completely.

The fight subsided when police came the first time, only to erupt again shortly after they left. After the police returned a second time, they were greeted by catcalls, hoots and howls and an audience estimated at several hundred spectators who lined up in front of building C, Lisner Library and building D.

This time, police arrived with one patrol car and later called a paddy wagon for further assistance. They dispersed the crowd, stopped the water battle and departed a second time.

But police were drawn to the scene again about 8 pm when the battle reached its peak, with men

A Year On Which To Build

• THE MARK OF Thomas Henry Carroll and his "new frontier" is the distinctive feature of this past year at George Washington University. The progressive views which the former vice president of the Ford Foundation and member of the faculty at both the University of Syracuse and the University of North Carolina brought with him already have been used to formulate the basis for building a great university—a university which can serve not only the community of Washington but also the nation and the world.

But President Carroll's coming into office in February was not a difficult change for the University faculty and student body to face. Provost and Dean of Faculties Oswald S. Colclough, the acting president for a two-year interim period, had readied the University for President Carroll.

Inaugural of President Carroll

On May 3, 1961, when the University witnessed its first inaugural in almost twenty-five years, hundreds of educational leaders from institutions of the United States as well as from other nations came to praise the zeal and leadership of the thirteenth President in our one hundred and forty year history.

This year's progress has been amazing to us but at the same time quite understandable, when we remember the leaders of the University. Perhaps the most significant change in University-student relations is the jump in tuition in the cost per semester hour from $24 to $30 in some schools and from $25 to $30 and $35 in others. But this tuition rise will be used to raise the present faculty salaries toward the national norm as well as to attract more top quality professors. On the black side of the ledger there will be both the opportunity and the incentive for outstanding students to take more than the standard 15 credit hours for the flat full time fee of $450 per semester.

New Administration Programs

On the positive side the Administration has eliminated the clause which required that all scholarship holders be unmarried. A new religious center has been planned, additional housing facilities for women students have been acquired and an expanded School of Government has been rechristened the School of Government, Business and Interna-

Board Of Trustees Abolish Jr. College

by T. C. Aronoff and Stan Remsberg

• THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, acting on a Faculty Senate recommendation, last week voted unanimously to abolish the Junior College and to combine its administrative and academic functions with those of the renamed Columbian College of Arts and Sciences.

The new program, to take effect September, 1961, will make the Associate of Arts degree, now compulsory upon completion of Junior College requirements, optional. Rather, a certificate indicating completion of necessary prerequisites will be given to students. Those students now in the Junior College will be placed in the Columbian College of Arts and Sciences.

The action came as a result of a proposal by the Committee of Eighteen—the parent body of the Faculty Senate. The Committee made its recommendation to Provost and Dean of Faculties Oswald S. Colclough while he was serving his interim term as University president. However, Dean Colclough did not act on this proposal, but rather gave it to President Carroll when he arrived.

"I had felt this was a proper move for a long time—even before Dr. Marvin retired. However, I did not feel that this was a major change that should be made during an interim administration so I postponed the action until the new president was chosen. I felt the new president should be given a chance to see how he felt about it rather than facing him with a major change. I am completely in agreement with the action; it is a long overdue change," Dr. Colclough said.

Shortly after the organization of the Senate, Dr. Carroll referred the proposal back to this body, which passed the recommendation at its April meeting. The proposal then went to the Board of Trustees where it was accepted in toto.

According to President Carroll, the original purpose of the Junior College was to facilitate the change from high school to independent university study. However, there is now a new connotation in the words "junior college." Through the years it has become known as an extension of the high school or sometimes it is even combined with the high school. "We have been using the wrong name for a long time," said President Carroll.

Speaking for the Faculty Senate, Dr. Fred S. Tupper, executive secretary, echoed the President's words. "We felt that freshmen and sophomores should be caught up in the university atmosphere to a greater degree than currently under the Junior College pattern of organization. We didn't want to give publicly the impression that our first two years of study were like those of the usual junior college which inevitably is devoid of university atmosphere," he said.

Dean Calvin D. Linton, dean of the Columbian College, said he saw four major purposes for the change. 1) Role of the Junior College has changed since the establishment of greater numbers of junior colleges. And the service which can be performed for students wanting only a junior college is now being done by these other institutions. 2) The two units (Junior College and Columbian College) made an unnecessary break in the student's four-year program; 3) The compulsory AA was not a good idea. Most students want to complete a four-year course and are expected to attend college for more than two years; 4) The overlapping faculties of the Junior and Columbian colleges is unnecessary and this change will make the faculty more unified.

Although we are not ignoring the fact that beginning students require a different type of advice than upperclassmen, this is "not so strong as to justify two administrations, two programs and two different schools," Dean Linton said.

Dean George M. Koehl, presenty dean of the Junior College, will assume the role of associate dean of the Columbian College of Arts and Science this fall.

EVERY COLLEGE STUDENT needs this book to increase his ability to learn

An understanding of the truth contained in Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy can remove the pressure which concerns today's college student upon whom increasing demands are being made for academic excellence.

Christian Science calms fear and gives to the student the full assurance he needs in order to learn easily and to evaluate what he has learned. It teaches that God is man's Mind—his only Mind—from which emanates all the intelligence he needs, when and as he needs it.

Science and Health, the textbook of Christian Science, may be read or examined, together with the Bible, in an atmosphere of quiet and peace, at any Christian Science Reading Room. Information about Science and Health may also be obtained on campus through the

Dr. Tischler Publishes Book; Dr. Alee Leaves For Iceland

• DR. NANCY P. TISCHLER'S book Tennessee Williams—Rebelious Puritan should be published by this fall.

The combined biography and criticism traces Williams' dramas showing the relations of the characters to his life. Dr. Tischler, assistant professor of English, attempts to show the progress of the dramatist's career through his twenty years of writing.

Ideas for the book, which is being published by Citadel Press, were drawn from Mrs. Tischler's work on her doctoral thesis.

When asked whether she'd sent Mr. Williams a copy of her book, Dr. Tischler said she had. Mr. Williams left the country soon after.

tossing water-filled balloons from fraternity house roofs, tossing some at spectators and drenching passing coeds.

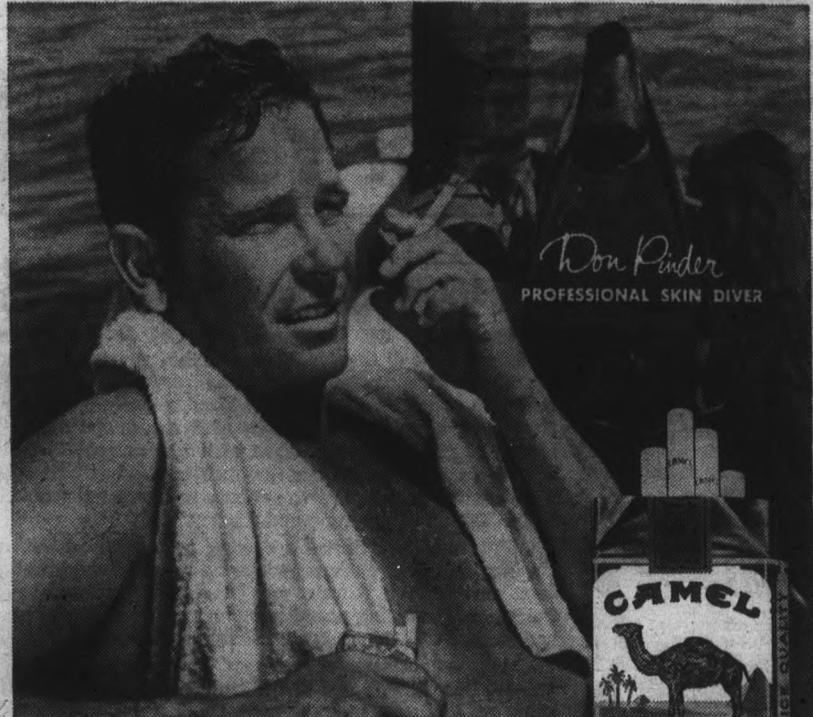

All kidding aside, the police broke it up for real this time and two foot patrolmen remained on G st until well after midnight.

According to IFC spokesman Baraff, Dr. Faith received two phone calls later in the week from the Third Precinct asking that disciplinary action be taken against the three fraternities cited specifically and against any other group found to be involved in the affair.

Dr. Faith has turned the matter over to the IFC to handle it as they see fit.

• THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES ACTION to eliminate the junior college was we feel a long overdue step as well as a necessary one.

The members of the Board are of the generation where "junior college" is either for girls who can't afford a finishing school or for high school students who can't get into a four-year college. Although in actuality the University's "Junior College" is neither of these, the term Junior College coupled with the compulsory Associate of Arts degree easily gives this impression to potential applicants to the University. Therefore, this piece of legislation as approved by the trustees also serves as a neat little public relations appeal for the University as well as the more obvious reasons of unifying the already overlapping facilities of the two schools and providing continuity to the four-year arts and sciences program.

Further the Board must be commended on its decision to retain the AA degree as optional. Many students deliberately only attend college for two years or find they must unavoidably drop out after two years and for them the AA is proof that they have attended college.

tional Affairs to indicate the fuller area of studies which it encompasses. For the faculty the long awaited Faculty Senate has finally become a reality. This senate gives each member of the faculty a better chance to voice his opinion in the University's "new frontier."

All of these points, many of them the results of years of work, have come to fruition this year in an era of newness and progress.

Student activities, that area where students like to think they run the show, has been a very confusing area to observe. Student activities has run the gauntlet from fantastic enthusiasm to near apathy.

Enthusiasm vs Apathy

The same student body which purchased almost 1100 Campus Combos at the beginning of the fall semester to set a new record, allowed nine of 16 Student Council offices to go unopposed and cast just slightly more than 1100 ballots for each of the seven opposed offices. The same student body which traveled, almost 100 strong, 100 miles to see its basketball team run through all opposition to win the Southern Conference Championship at Richmond and which then journeyed, almost 200 strong, 225 miles to see this same team lose to Princeton in Madison Square Garden turned out, less than 100 strong, to see the performance of concert pianist Theodore Ullmann on campus in Lisner auditorium.

There is much to indicate that the student body is a bunch of cultural morons on a campus devoid of any issue worthy of arousing the interests—both pros and cons—of one or two student groups, not to mention the student body at large.

Just after the poor turnout of students to hear Dr. Ullmann's classical piano recital, President Carroll presented the Student Council with the opportunity to give free tickets to the student body to hear a lecture series by such eminent men as Sir Arnold Toynbee, Dr. Harold C. Urey and Sir Charles P. Snow.

Establishing a Cultural Program

As a first step the Student Council established the Cultural Foundation. Its first job was to publicize the lecture series and disburse some 400 free tickets to students. This venture in culture met with a moderate amount of success, and we are moving forward.

In two other Student Council sponsored cultural events, jazz musicians Charlie Byrd and Mose Allison visited the campus. Local favorite guitarist, Charlie Byrd packed Lisner auditorium in mid-October. But jazz pianist and singer Mose Allison drew only a small audience in late April.

The University Players under the direction of Edward Ferero presented their usual entertaining performances in this year's Homecoming musical, "The Boyfriend," and in "The Tender Trap" in the spring as well as in a joint presentation with the Dance Production group in "The Wife of Usher's Well."

But the toast of the cultural program at the University were the "Traveling Troubadours," the singing group led by Dr. Robert Harmon. The "Troubadours" had a widely acclaimed five week stand in the main show at New York City's Radio City Music Hall.

Vacuum in Political Issues

The question of the vacuum in the area of political issues is one which plagued the leaders of campus political parties—both the Colonial Campus Party and the newly organized Students for Better Government. With the absence of issues to debate and then to run on, neither party presented a united front for the spring Student Council elections. The Colonial Campus Party, which had its knuckles fairly soundly rapped for its method of setting up a slate only partially organized this fall, just in time to have its candidate beaten in a special election for Student Council Member-at-Large. The defeat of the CCP candidate was actually the death blow for a slate of candidates being nominated for the spring elections.

The Colonial Campus Party, whose leadership lay to a large number of seniors who were too far away from politics really to care to lead, never formed again. The Students for Better Government party, fearing that their method of selecting a slate would meet the same criticism that the CCP method had met last year, only set up a platform which all Student Council candidates could accept or reject as they choose.

With no real issues to decide and nine unopposed candidates including president, vice president and secretary the seemingly apathetic student body cast only about 1100 votes. This number is a sharp drop from the 1400 and 1900 votes cast in the preceding two years.

Student Council Innovations

In spite of the seeming apathy in the organized campus political circles, this year's Student Council under the outstanding leadership of President David Aaronson took a greater hand in presenting more for the student body. Five of the new projects undertaken by the Student Council were 1) establishing the Book Exchange, where students for a minimum handling cost could buy and sell used texts; 2) publishing and selling a Student Directory, which lists the names, addresses and telephone numbers of all University students; 3) holding an Activities Fair at which students could inquire about organized groups on campus; 4) investigating complaints on food and food preparation in the Student Union, and 5) learning of the problems of foreign students at the University through a Student Council appointed liaison. Another Student Council program sent a group of University students to Howard University to participate in a Model United Nations Security Council meeting. Bob Aleshire, in his role as the representative of the Soviet Union was so real a Nikita Khrushchev that he was the sensation of the meeting.

Perhaps the biggest issues came in the area of racial discrimination. When plans were being made for the Colonial Cruise to Marshall Hall amusement park, the owners of the park made it clear that no negroes would be admitted. The Student Council took immediate steps to plan another event in place of Colonial Cruise. Thus Mardi Gras, a huge street party, was born.

The Interfraternity Council had quite a bout investigating discriminatory clauses and policies of campus fraternities, but nothing more than a standing committee to investigate the problem came from it. The IFC had a real flurry of excitement during fall rush when questionable rush practices forced it to place one fraternity on social probation and levy a $50 fine on another. This year marked the arrival on campus of a thirteenth national social sorority—Sigma Delta Tau.

Homecoming, Hi-Ball

The two big all-University dances met with the usual enthusiastic student support although the big spring semester semi-formal dance Hi-Ball was a financial disappointment for the second consecutive year. The big fall week end Homecoming, featured two new ideas—a name band, Larry Elgart, and a queen to reign over the weekend, not after it.

The University's representatives to other schools continued to present an interesting contribution. George Hennigan's debate team had a mediocre but rebuilding year. For the first time a team will represent the University in June on the nationally televised College Bowl quiz show. Our varsity athletic groups have been rather spasmodic this spring, not always winning, though not always losing.

Elias, Camp, Reinhart

And finally we come to football and basketball. Last year a great guy named Bill Elias came to the University from the mid-west. Our football team had a 5-3 record under his tutelage. Then he went to hapless University of Virginia in Charlottesville. This year another guy came from the mid-west. His name is Jim Camp. Good luck Jim!

Basketball scandals were the thing this year—the scheme was point shaving. Our 9-16 basketball entry had its bumps until late in the season and especially in its last game. In one of the early season games our basketball team dropped a game to NC State by some twenty points. The recent disclosure that NC State was shaving points in that game causes one to wonder just how good our team was. But we remember that three game tournament in Richmond where Coach Bill Reinhart became a genius in three days. But we'll end it there.

Yes, this was a year of progress, a year of contrasts in student activities, but most of all a year on which we hope President Thomas Henry Carroll and the entire University will build a "new frontier" for the better instruction of the community, the nation and the world.

Communism And Democracy Can't Find Compromise

by Margaret Walter

• COMPROMISE BETWEEN communism and democracy is impossible, Horace E. Henderson, former deputy assistant secretary of State for International Affairs, told University students last week.

"If an individual, a nation, a people does not have basic moral attributes on which they will not compromise . . . there will not be time in which we can assure that the world will be free," Mr. Henderson told the Chinese Students Service club explaining "Why the United States should oppose the Admission of Red China into the United Nations."

"We need strong, aggressive political warfare . . . and force itself, which is the only thing they fear and respect." He asked how anyone can negotiate with a insane party, "for any form of fanaticism is insane," and with a party "whose one purpose is to stab the West in the back as soon as it turns around."

Communism's basic aim is to serve Communism, not the rest of the world, he said. Any agreements would be broken by the Communists as soon as the Reds thought it would be expedient for their cause.

"We have reached the time when we should be willing to protect ourselves," he noted. Only by "mobilizing the vast manpower and idealism of this nation can we defeat Communism . . . but time is running out."

Mr. Henderson said one great setback for United States citizens in their fight against Communism

SBA Secretary

• THE HATCHET REGRETS the omission of the announcement of Electra Sperry as the newly elected secretary of the Student Bar Association in the University Law School.

was success of the space shot. "After the Cuban fiasco American people were shocked and aroused; now, with this success, they are back in their apathy."

"We are involved today in a war more serious and awesome than any before, and we are doing business as usual," he said, whereas as what we need is a "strong aggressive policy, emergency measures, and a total mobilization for war. We have to be ready to go in and fight."

One of the greatest mistakes, he expressed, was our non-intervention in Hungary. If we hesitate in Laos, Southeast Asia will fall "and America will be next."

At the present time, he said, the "hard, cold, brutal fact is that we are losing." America has not done as well as it should in effecting the idealistic forms to which it committed itself and has "fallen far short of serving mankind."

So if Red China were admitted into the United Nations the odds of getting to a reasonable solution of the world problem would be lessened because "Red China's influence and prestige would be increased many times. It could not help but lead to its recognition by many others," this would be the "sealing of doom" for freedom all over the world," he concluded.

Summer Recreation

• THIS SUMMER, THE University's recreational program will be taken over by the Men's Physical Education Department. Mr. Henry Busky will be in charge of the program and can be reached at 2025 H st at extension 300 of the University exchange.

A great deal of different events have been planned on a tentative schedule including numerous dances, picnics and outings. The Physical Education Department will extend its facilities to students this summer. A schedule of events can be obtained by contacting Mr. Busky but this schedule is in no way definite and Mr. Busky welcomes all suggestions.

'Hester' Exposed As Bernie Karmel

by John Day

• YES T. C., THERE is a Hester Heale. Bernie is the spirit of gossip in all of us.

For a year Hester's vituperative old body strangled G street, Dupont Circle and the remoter recesses of Third Precinct guarded night life, laboriously attending parties and recording their sacriliges, sorrows, and sins for her (his) own beloved Foggy.

Bernie Karmel, here revealed for the first time as the University's ancestral social watchdog, has molded the HATCHET's Foggy Bottom exposées this year. Until now behind the scenes, Bernie's style and technique have been personified in four lines by poet Laura Sherry:

"There is a screw loose in the hinge.
Somewhere
In the junk heap
Is a ghost."

Although a ghost writer, Bernie's achievements aren't all as screwy as his Foggy stories. A graduating psychology major, his studies have qualified him to interpret and report little things around the University. Bernie will work toward his Masters degree in Psychology and beginning this Fall will serve as an assistant to the Driver Behavior project here at GW.

Hester Heale,
Bernie Karmel

As Old Men Board President this year, he helped improve the freshman orientation program while he laid the basis for an even better one this fall. Bernie is also a member of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity for which he has served as rush chairman.

Before returning to his studies this fall Bernie plans to take a break, after which he, T. C. (by this time Karmel and no longer Aronoff), and their little red Volkswagen "Frieda," will honeymoon. "Being Aunt Hester," said Bernie, "has enabled me to inject a few comments on things as they are in addition to gossip. It has personally been quite rewarding."

It's been enjoyable writing for you kiddies, but Auntie is not yet quite through. She still must tell at least one more tid-bit before retiring to more peaceful endeavors. So sit back and read with both eyes.

Last week Auntie went on her usual crusade; collecting advice to help her readers bear the next few weeks and, she might also add, pass.

Auntie interviewed important people, not-so-important people, her next door neighbor, and even students. Here is her one significant finding on what to do before final exams—Get plenty of rest, kiddies, lest you be caught napping.

The Delta Zeta Sorority hosted the Sigma Nu's at a coffee hour last Monday at an Adam and Eve party. Social Chairmen Nancy and Steve were seen socializing in one corner. DZ Sue Swan and SN Joe Valliant were noticed changing innocent looking pirates. After an evening of fun, the Sigma Nu's left serenading.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Chi Omegas entertained the Deltas at a luncheon. The eating was interrupted for a few minutes when everyone rushed out front to see the ROTC as it passed. Everyone returned, however, to finish the food and enjoy a skit. The skit turned out to be a Chi O imitation of the Deltas—and the Deltas with egos knocked, didn't seem to mind. As a matter of fact, they found it quite rehabilitating. All of the food and fun ended, however, at one o'clock, when everyone just had to return to their respective classes.

SAE held their annual Pre-Ocean City Party last Saturday night. The dress, if you could call it that, was bathing suits either with or without straps. Of course the center of attention was the punch bowl—trying to rid it of its contents was a chore for everyone. Some policemen appeared at the door, but since they did not have the proper beach attire, they had to leave.

Also on Saturday night the PiKEs topped off the year with their annual Dreamgirl Dance. The gala affair was held at the Hotel 2400; the music was provided by the Nightingales who tweeted along their merry migratory path.

At the dance, the chapter presented awards for outstanding pledge, active and alumnus. These awards went to George Jaeger, Bob Carens and Ed Rutsch respectively.

Thus ends another year in the illustrious life of one Hester Heale. Quoth Hester: "Gossip can be fun when no one knows to whom it can be attributed."

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

Seven years now I have been writing this column for the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, and each year when I come to the last column of the year, my heart is gripped by the same bittersweet feeling. I shall miss you sorely, dear readers, in the long summer days ahead. I shall miss all you freckle-faced boys with frogs in your pockets. I shall miss all you pig-tailed girls with your gap-toothed giggles. I shall miss you one and all—your shining morning faces, your apples, your marbles, your jacks, your little oilcloth satchels.

But I shall not be entirely sad, for you have given me many a happy memory to sustain me. It has been a rare pleasure writing this column for you all year, and I would ask every one of you to come visit me during the summer except there is no access to my room. The makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, after I missed several deadlines, walled me in. All I have is a mail slot into which I drop my column and through which they supply me with Marlboro Cigarettes and such food as will slip through a mail slot. (For six months now I have been living on after-dinner mints.)

Sports car spice never came in so many varieties...Chevrolet!

Maybe you're a fellow with more or less normal driving habits who's looking for a change of pace. Or maybe you're a red-hot sports car buff. Either way, you'll find the fastest relief for that tantalizing itch in your driving foot at your Chevrolet dealer's One-Stop Shopping Center. He's got cars that run the sporting gamut like no others—nimble Corvair Monzas (2- or 4-door), charged-up Impala Super Sports (in five different body styles) and the kingpin of production sports cars, the Corvette. You can take your choice without chasing all over town. They're all stablemates under the same roof!

Nestle behind the wheel in one of those bucket front seats and see what Corvair's rear-engine design has done for driving. Steering that responds to the subtlest hint. Braking that brings you to precise even-keel stops. Traction that clings like a cocklebur.

CORVETTE

It's the goingest machine in America. Pure-bred sports car performance—the likes of which only the most elite (and expensive) foreign-built jobs could claim before Corvette began stealing their thunder in open competition.

I am only having my little joke. The makers of Marlboros have not walled me in. They could never do such a cruel thing. Manly and muscular they may be, and gruff and curt and direct, but underneath they are men of great heart and sweet, compassionate disposition, and I wish to take this opportunity to state publicly that I will always have the highest regard for the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, no matter how my lawsuit for back wages comes out.

I am only having my little joke. I am not suing the makers of Marlboros for back wages. These honorable gentlemen have always paid me promptly and in full. To be sure, they have not paid me in cash, but they have given me something far more precious. You would go far to find one so covered with tattoos as I.

I am only having my little joke. The makers of Marlboros have not covered me with tattoos. In fact, they have engraved no commercial advertising whatsoever on my person. My suit, of course, is another matter, but even here they have exercised taste and restraint. On the back of my suit, in unobtrusive neon, they have put this fetching little jingle:

*Are your taste buds out of killer?
Are you bored with smoking, neighbor?
Then try that splendid Marlboro filter,
Try that excellent Marlboro neighbor!*

On the front of my suit, in muted phosphorus, are pictures of the members of the Marlboro board and their families. On my hat is a small cigarette girl crying, "Who'll buy my Marlboros?"

I am only having my little joke. The makers of Marlboros have been perfect dolls to work for, and so, dear readers, have you. Your kind response to my nonsense has warmed this old thorax, and I trust you will not find me soggy if in this final column of the year, I express my sincere gratitude.

Have a good summer. Stay healthy. Stay happy. Stay loose.

- The maximum for rule infractions was raised from $25 to $75.
- Only beer can be served at rush parties.
- Special emphasis is placed on the responsibility of the rushee in the enforcement of the rush rules.

Along with these plans, came discussion of the IFC newspaper, The Fraternity Times, issued for the first time last fall as a rush technique, and thought to be very effective. Last year's editor, Ben Kittridge, was appointed to head the operation. He said the paper would follow last year's format, but would be mailed to freshmen instead of distributed when they arrived on campus. Mr. Baraff described the paper as "non-partisan, but directed at orientating the incoming freshmen to the functions, benefits, and purposes of fraternities." An improved barbecue was also planned for the fall season.

Past Treasurer, John Voigt, appeared to make another plea for debt payment. Pi Kappa Alpha led the list with a debt of $160 still outstanding. Treasurer Rick Hardock said that a 10 per cent fine would be levied against all outstanding debts.

The meeting adjourned until Tuesday when the representatives will express views on the proposed quota system.

Scholarships Unlimited Aid Students Find Summer Jobs

A SUMMER JOB placement service is being offered for the first time this year by Scholarships Unlimited, a students scholarship service. For a $1 registration fee the service guarantees to place the students available into the hands of at least 1000 prospective employers in the area of the student's choice.

For this year the service is limited to the Eastern half of the US.

The service is offered to cover the work area of the vacation and resort industry of the Middle Atlantic and New England states. This area includes all of the mountain and lake regions from Virginia Beach, Va., northward to Maine. Work in the vacation industry is open to all students.

There are no placement commissions because this service is not a commercial service or an employment agency. Scholarships Unlimited normally directs its efforts along the lines of scholarship aid for students during the academic year.

For verification of the activities of Scholarships Unlimited, contact Mr. Robert K. Kroesen, executive vice president, Greater Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

For more information or for registration contact: Students for Summer Employment, Box 2092, Trenton, 7, NJ.

The first day during practice, I shot about a 90 but I learned the course and that was what I was interested in. I was thinking real well and that's very important in golf as in any sport."

The soft-spoken Haney shot a steaming one-over-par 73 on the first round. Bob had two birdies on the front nine playing it in even par. He bogied the tenth row, Jim has held a doubles crown in the Southern Conference Tournament. Two years ago, he and Sol Leibowitz teamed up to take the number two doubles. Last year, he and Jim Tarr walked off with the number one doubles crown. This season, Whitehead continued in his winning tradition by combining talents with Ken Silverstone, the only other graduating Colonial Racqueteer, to cop the number one doubles title for the second time.

Jim almost made a clean sweep of it in the Conference Tourney this year, but he lost in the final round of the number one singles championship to the same man who beat him last year in the number two finals, Benji Vara, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, in what was probably the best played match of the Tourney.

"The team was up for the Tournament," Whitehead said. "We all played as we should. No one played over his head. We played well and we did well." The Whitehead-Silverstone duo was seeded fourth and not given much of a chance by the experts but they proceeded to knock off the number one team in the semis and then went on to beat a Citadel team, that had beaten them earlier, for the Tourney crown.

The Quiet Trio may not make a lot of noise vocally, but then again they don't have to. They do enough talking with their talents. Whitehead will be sorely missed at GW, both because of his abilities and his personality, but Ardell and Haney will continue to be valuable parts of the GW athletic program.

Golfers Finish Dismal Seventh

• THE COLONIAL Linksters had their high hopes shattered by the James River Country Club course as they finished a dismal seventh in the Southern Conference Golf Tournament held in Richmond this past week.

VPI, winner of the Virginia state championship, entered the Tourney as a solid favorite. They disappointed no one as they ran away with the title.

Bob Haney, "Mr. Contestant" all year long, played in top form, posting rounds of 73 and 76 to tie him for medalist honors. Ed Bowers played his usually powerful game to chalk up a 77-81 mark. Scrambling Marv Singman shot 79-83 to give the Colonials a good combined three-man score. However the Southern Conference rules provide for the best four scores of each team to count and between Steve Rubin, Seth Rosen and Herb Goldblatt there was not a good enough total to put the Buff into contention.

AEPi Downs Gents For Crown; Triple Playoff Decides A2 Title

by Jack Goldberg

• INTRAMURAL SOFTBALL ENDED this weekend, and the battle for top honors turned out to be a wild and woolly one.

AEPi, the leader in the A2 division with a 3-0 record, needed but one more win to clinch the title. Their opponents, DTD, who had lost only one game previously, needed this one to tie for the crown. Jack Goldberg and Dave Breeder were the opposing pitchers.

The wild first inning saw 13 runs cross the plate as the Deltas tallied five in the top half but AEPi came back with eight. Hitting by Tom Jackson, Bob Johnson and Stu Ross gave the Apes a quick five-run lead. But AEPi rallied to the occasion as Bob Hirsch, Pete Constantine, Steve Sandler and Seth Rosen quickly demolished the Delt lead and gave the Apes three more runs to spare. DTD chipped away at the Ape lead but Al "Fireman" Ezrin came on in the last inning with the Deltas threatening to strike out the last two batters and lock up the ballgame and the League crown for AEPi with a 10-8 victory.

DTD	5	0	0	0	3	-8
AEPi	8	6	0	2	x-10

Determining the winner of the A1 championship was more complicated. The Tau Boys and the Welling Gents were undefeated while SAE was in second place, having lost to the Tau Boys for their only setback.

The first game found the Gents taking on SAE. The opposing pitchers were John Jackson for the Gents and Henry Frain for the Dupont Circles. The Gents scored two quick runs in the first frame as Bob Barbire and John Jackson cracked hits. John Naulls helped SAE come back as he scored, after doubling, for the only SAE tally in the first inning. From the second stanza on, SAE dominated the ballgame as they went on to win 7-4. Ellis Wisler and Ron Bartell hit well for the losers. Henry Frain homered for the Dupont Circles and was supported by Larry Dohner who collected two hits.

Gents	2	0	0	0	2	-4
SAE	1	2	1	3	x-7

The Tau Boys, still in first place, now had a chance to clinch the title with a win over Welling Hall. John Jackson, who had pitched the SAE game, opposed Fred Goldman of the Boys. The Gents scored four runs in the fourth inning as Alex Sokaris and Charlie Packen slashed singles. The Boys almost pulled even as they came up with three runs in their half of the fourth as Fred Goldman and Leo Breitman delivered clutch hits. That was all they scored, however, as the Gents held on to their lead and won 5-3.

Gents	0	0	0	4	1	-5
Tau	0	0	3	0	3

Now, with the Tau Boys' loss, there was a three-way tie for first place in the A1 League. It was finally decided that the three teams would play each other one-inning games, the League champ to be the team that accumulated the most runs.

The first two teams to play were SAE and the Tau Boys. The Boys came through with one run and were able to hold SAE scoreless. In the second game, Welling managed to push across two runs while shutting out SAE, thereby eliminating them from contention. The Tau Boys played the Gents in the third and final game, needing one run to tie and two runs to beat the boys from the Hall. But the Tau Boys were unable to score off Jackson and the A1 crown went to Welling Hall.

With the A1 title decided, Welling took on AEPi for the Intramural crown. AEPi batted first, and on the fine hitting of Marty Gersten, Mike Grossman, and Seth Rosen, picked up four important runs. The Apes tallied another run in the second inning as Bob Hirsch came through with a needed hit.

Welling Hall, not to be shut out, tallied for three runs in their half of the fourth as John Jackson and Fred Manuel singled and doubled respectively. The Apes came back with two insurance runs in the top half of the fifth on consecutive singles by Seth Rosen, Jack Goldberg and Alan Wise.

Now, with the score in favor, 7-3, Al Ezrin had to face the top half of the Welling batting order in the last inning. Ron Bartell doubled to start off the Welling attack. John Jackson, now pitching his third game of the afternoon, doubled him across. But Ezrin was able to meet the situation as he held on to the AEPi lead, getting the next three batters to pop up to the infield. AEPi won the ballgame and the Intramural softball trophy by a score of 7-4.

SPORTS

Dave Segal Saunders

• THE SPORTS YEAR is over, and the school year too for that matter, and I have always felt guilty about not being able to give some kind of recognition to three Colonial athletes who have been standouts for their teams and also as people.

These three, who might well be termed the Quiet Trio, are three of the nicest, fairest, spirited and most personable guys at this University. Don Ardell plays basketball, Bob Haney plays golf, and Jim Whitehead plays tennis but the thing that they all have in common is that they all play well.

Don Ardell came to GW straight from the Air Force. Strangely enough, he never played high school basketball but ran four years of varsity track instead. Don played ball in the service however, and he teamed with George Kline in the backcourt of the Air Force team that went all the way to the Air Force championships. After he got out of the service, Kline snapped up Ardell to bolster the Colonial hoop contingent.

Don came to school in February and played freshman ball for the remainder of the season. He played with the freshman squad the first semester of this year, averaging 25 points a game. At the midsemester, he moved up to the varsity with hardly any difficulty at all to fill the position vacated by the graduated Ralph Kunze.

Don opened his varsity career with ten points against The Citadel and from there on in, became one of the stars of the Colonial Cagers. In the first round of the Southern Conference Tourney, Don popped in 22 points against VPI, including the winning basket. Don's forte is his rebounding, and despite his lack of height at 6-feet-2, Don wound up in number three position for rebounders in the Tourney behind Bill Ingram and Jeff Cohen. In the championship game against the Indians, Don pulled down ten rebounds in the all-important first half.

The secret to Don's jumping ability is that he works out every summer with weights on his ankles. He plays a normal game of basketball carrying 15 pounds of lead on his feet.

This summer Don intends to continue with his weight program. Another task for this summer will be as Freshman Director. "I had the time and I wanted to do something that would interest me and benefit me as well," Don said. "My interest in school has doubled since I began to participate in extracurricular activities. I have a great deal of enthusiasm for GW and I hope I can transmit some of it to the incoming freshmen."

Bob Haney, a sophomore, has moved in and taken over the GW golf scene. Bob plays number one on the golf team

Crew Winds Up Eleventh In Recent Dad Vale Regatta

• THE COLONIAL CREW finished eleventh in a field of 20 crews in the Dad Vale Regatta held in Philadelphia last week and although the standing doesn't seem too impressive, it is a tribute to the team spirit, willingness to work, and coaching prowess of Chip Fawcett that the team did so well.

The Dad Vale is one of the year's crew highlights and this year drew such outstanding boats as Brown, the eventual winner of the Regatta, Purdue, Georgetown, Amherst, Rollins, LaSalle, St. Joseph's, Drexel, Marquette and many more.

The race is run in three heats. The teams that finish in first and second place in their respective heats go on to the finals. The teams finishing in third and fourth place row off in a consolation round. The race is run at a distance of a mile and five sixteenths—Henley distance.

In the first heat, the Colonials finished in fourth position, good enough to qualify them for the consolation round. In the consolation heat, the Buff oarsmen came in fifth to give them the overall eleventh place. The Regatta was won by Brown University in the record time of 6:00:8.

The crew began its season in disappointing fashion, but that was due to the lack of experience of the members and an absence of coordination as a team. The workouts began in late February in the gym because it was too cold to go out on the Potomac.

The early losses to Georgetown, Drexel and St. Joseph's were an indication of that lack of experience which is so important in this sport. But with each race, the team became more and more of a unit.

The coxswain is Dick Penrod. Dick is a geography major and a senior at the University. Dick, an ex-Marine, has the job of guiding the boat and getting as much from each member of the team as he is capable of. He has complete command of the boat, controlling the rhythm and coordinating the eight oarsmen.

Bill Perazich is the stroke. Bill is an honor student in the engineering school. The stroke is responsible for maintaining or raising the beat. The stroke must be the most experienced oarsman because everyone watches him to get the rhythm.

Ron Reeves is the number seven oar. Ron, who used to play guard on the football team, is a senior with varsity crew experience. The number seven oar must also be experienced and capable because, in effect, he is the stroke of the starboard side of the boat.

The number six oar is Serge Yanov. Serge is a graduate of the Colorado School of Mines but is now enrolled as an undergraduate at GW in the field of international economics. This is Serge's first year out for crew.

Pete Wasilewski is the number five oar. Pete is a grid star and a familiar figure in campus politics and activities. Pete is another of the graduating oarsmen.

The number four oar is John Haggerty. John is a pre-med major who, as a junior, has had three years varsity experience. John will be one of the bulwarks of the Colonial boat next year.

Pete Koehler is the number three oar. Pete is a graduate of Harvard University who is taking his Masters work here at GW in physics. Pete has had a great deal of rowing experience which is vital to a good crew.

The number two oar is team
